

Advance @ Zurich "Making the Impossible Possible"

Do you need to be born with certain capabilities or can you develop certain strengths that would make you more inclined to be successful? Can you control your personal success? Do you know which factors hinder you – can you address them and resolve them to be more successful?

At this Advance @ Zurich Event under Making the Impossible Possible, we want to inspire you and look deeper into the common denominators of people who have turned what looks impossible into possible.

What were their drive, motivation and decisions? Is there a red thread for how these individuals managed within their own specific area to accelerate and despite the surrounding circumstances take decisions - or not take decisions - which led them onto their successful path? Can success sometimes be based on pure luck? Or is success always very well planned?
